A.T. GUN (Ex-Swiss)

GERMAN

2 cm s PzB (Solothurn s/8-1100)

This gun, an improved version of the Solothurn 1933 model manufactured in Switzerland by the Waffenfabrik, is a magazine fed, recoil operated, semi-automatic shoulder weapon which can be fired from a bipod or a low-lying, pneumatic-wheeled carriage. The combined weight of gun and mount is approximately 200 pounds; the gun itself weighs 103 pounds.

The barrel is easily changed by giving it a half turn, thereby disengaging two lugs. Two types of magazines are used; one holding five rounds and the other ten.

The bolt is forward and all parts rigid when the firing pin strikes the cap of the projectile. When the last shot in the magazine is fired, the cartridge case is automatically ejected; then when a new magazine is inserted, the bolt is again thrown forward automatically and the gun is ready to fire.

Construction of all parts is exceptionally rugged and simple. The gun, which fires semi-automatically, is extremely accurate and easily handled. In comparison with the earlier model, the new gun shows a slight decrease in weight, increased muzzle velocity, and high armor-penetrating qualities. It also possesses the advantage of a dust-proof breech mechanism.

SPECIFICATIONS

Caliber	20 mm (7.9 in.)
Weight of gun (complete).....	103 lb.
Weight of barrel with muzzle brake (approx.)	44 lb.
Length of gun (overall).....	7.1 ft.
Length of barrel.....	4.25 ft.
Rifling.....	8 lands and grooves; 5° uniform twist
Muzzle velocity (reported).....	937-991 yds./sec.

UK consul to picketers: I'm Irish, too

By BOB KEELEY
Staff Writer

British Consul General Philip McKearney yesterday told a group of IRA supporters picketing outside his Beacon Hill residence that he is "as Irish as you are."

The demonstrators had arrived outside the Chestnut Street residence shortly before midnight Wednesday after learning news of the death of Raymond McCreesh, 24, the third IRA hunger striker to die this month in Belfast's Maze Prison. A fourth hunger striker died last night.

When McKearney came out his front door, he stopped in front of a symbolic coffin the protesters had erected on the sidewalk.

"I saw the coffin, stood in front of it and prayed silently. I prayed for all the men, women and children who had died in Ireland," explained the senior British official in Boston.

As he stood in front of the coffin, he was approached by one of the protesters, Liam Deeney of Dorchester.

McKearney told Deeney he had prayed for the dead.

"Are you praying for my cousin who was killed by one of your army jeeps last month?" Deeney asked.

"I'm praying for all the dead," was McKearney's reply.

"Well, are you thinking about or praying for some of my other cousins and relatives who are in Long Kesh on the blanket?" Deeney shot back.

McKearney nodded.

Deeney, a lanky Irishman with an Abe Lincoln-type beard and heavy brogue, then began to tell McKearney that England should get out of Ireland.

"I'm just as Irish as you are," declared the diplomat.

"You gotta be kidding . . . not with that accent," Deeney countered.

"I'm serious . . . I am just as Irish as you," McKearney answered.

Later the consul general said he had "as much claim to being Irish" as the demonstrators because his grandfather was born in County Cavan in the Irish Republic.

"My grandfather lived in Ireland when it was part of the United Kingdom. When people started moving to the United States or England, he moved to Scotland. He was Catholic, of course," McKearney said.

"That's not a fair question. That's the type of question that is being asked in Northern Ireland . . . are you Catholic or Pro?"

McKearney said it didn't make any sense to him that his British accent disqualified him from claiming Irish heritage.

Reurmemo 12/4/80 and our conversation 12/8/80.

While it may be possible to approach this investigation from a standard criminal viewpoint (violations of the ITSP Statute, Theft of Government Property Gun Control Act, etc.) it seems more appropriate to view it in the context of International Terrorism.

Our primary objective is the detection and prevention of international terrorism and the facts developed to date in this matter fall squarely within the mandate.

b6
b7C
b7E

HARRISON and [REDACTED] appear to fall within the definition of persons engaged in acts of international terrorism as defined in [REDACTED]

Consequently it would seem quite proper to seek authority to [REDACTED]

This investigative route will enable the FBI to develop additional information about these international terrorists in order to make a more informed judgement in the future regarding criminal prosecution in the United States, and if need be, readjust the focus of the investigation toward that goal.

DATE 04-12-2018 BY: [redacted]

To : SAC IV [redacted]

Date 12/15/80

From : SA [redacted] #44A

Subject : George Harrison
[redacted]

A review of NYO closed files, file # [redacted] in particular, revealed the following information:

Subject has a DOB of 5/2/15
hair - brown eyes - blue marital status - single
INS # (as of 1949) AA 17561
employment - Brinks, Inc.
66 Murray street
NYC, NY

It was indicated that Harrison was a member of the Irish Prisoners Aid Committee which was located at 326 West 48th Street, NYC, NY. It is noted that this is the same address that [redacted]
[redacted]

The file also indicated that Harrison was interviewed by Bureau agents in 1964 concerning the travel to the US by an IRA member soliciting funds.

A 1954 memo indicated that Harrison and a [redacted] (referred to by [redacted]) had formed the Irish Freedom Committee.

It was also noted that Harrison had registered with the Justice Department from 1958-1960 under the Foreign Agents Registration Act as an agent of the IRA in the US.

There were numerous references to Harrison's involvement in an array of IRA supportive activities.

IRA: Raid is revenge for Devlin

Tynan, Northern Ireland (Combined Dispatches)—Authorities said yesterday that the assassinations of Protestant politician Sir Norman Stronge and his son, James, was "eye-for-eye" retaliation for the attempted murders of Catholic civil rights leader Bernadette Devlin McAliskey and her husband, Michael.

The Provisional wing of the predominantly Catholic IRA boasted in a statement issued by the Republican News Bureau in Dublin that they had killed the Stronges.

Protestant militants immediately urged retaliation.

The IRA said the attack on the Stronges represented "real departure" from previous attacks and signaled a new policy "to take reprisals for the activities of loyalist paramilitaries."

"This deliberate attack on the symbols of hated unionism was a direct reprisal for a whole series of loyalist assassinations and murder attacks on nationalist people," the IRA said.

THREE PROTESTANTS have been charged with the attempted murders of the McAliskies, who were shot repeatedly at point-blank range by gunmen who burst into their farmhouse using a sledge hammer last Friday. The McAliskies are recovering.

Authorities said the terrorists executed Sir Norman, 86, a former

Sir Norman
Stronge

James
Stronge

speaker of the Northern Ireland parliament, and his 48-year-old son Wednesday night.

Minutes before eight terrorists blasted down the solid oak door of the 17th century castle, Tynan Abbey, in south Armagh near the border with the Irish Republic, police said Sir Norman fired a distress flare from the chimney of his library to alert security forces.

The guerrillas dragged Sir Norman and his son from the house and shot them on the lawn. The raiders then set off three bombs that gutted the 230-year-old mansion and fled in two cars after a 20-minute battle with a police patrol and military helicopter.

POLICE, TROOPS and British army helicopters were scouring the countryside in search of the gunmen.

Sir Norman, a leader of the Protestant majority, was speaker of the Northern Ireland parliament from 1945 to 1969, when he gave up his seat because of his age and was succeeded by his son.

Britain dissolved the Protestant-dominated parliament in 1972 in response to four years of violence between Protestants and Catholics. The British now govern the six northern Irish provinces from London.
